HOPE

Every day, countless children face abuse, isolation, hunger, and a lack of education, trapping them in a relentless cycle.

But we at Kids Alive International believe in their potential for a different life. We can champion their cause through collective action, empowering them to live with dignity, freedom, and joy.

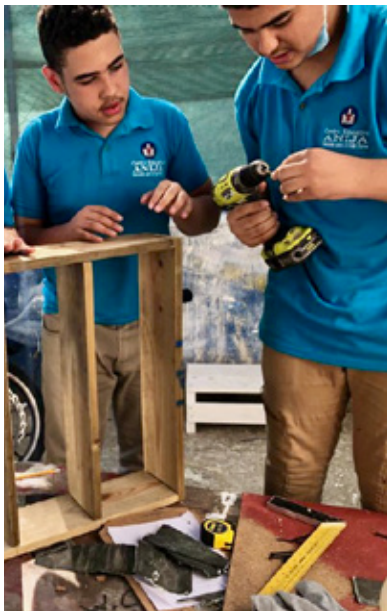

Together, we can help each child attain a future full of hope.

Futures of hope start here!

Our Why

At Kids Alive International, we believe every child, even those with the most challenging needs, is a priority to God. Still, far too many are unnoticed, overlooked, unheard, exploited, and threatened.

Our mission is the call of Isaiah 1:17, to serve these children by constantly learning better ways to meet their needs, earnestly seeking justice for them, empowering them for a healthy future, and advocating for community change.

Learn to do good;
Seek justice,
Rebuke the oppressor;
Defend the fatherless,
Plead for the widow.

– Isaiah 1:17 NKJV

Letter from the CEO

Greetings!

Your prayers, encouragement, and faithful support helped us serve children worldwide. Thank you!

We are confident that we've positioned ourselves for a strong future and that future is exciting! We have our first international member of the Kids Alive board, Patrick Lutta, a Kenyan attorney. Additionally, our Country Directors continue to develop passionate, professional, and faithful teams composed of members from the local communities.

The most exciting part is a growing realization that all we do for children revolves around God's justice. Biblically, justice is doing things God's way, giving everyone what they deserve as God's image-bearers. God's justice addresses body, mind, soul, and spirit as He heals children, families, and communities with a particular concern for the most vulnerable in society. The concept of God's justice — a Justice that Heals — is a unifying passion with Kids Alive as we teach children in classrooms, strengthen families in care centers, place children in families, accompany children in courtrooms, and transform communities.

Our Global Goals guide what Justice that Heals looks like for a child or family in a Kids Alive ministry. Our goal for every child we serve is that they have a present and future where they:

1. Enjoy a vibrant, life-changing relationship with God
2. Experience emotional and physical well-being
3. Are equipped for a life of independence and service
4. Live a life of family and community, free of fear and violence

We know that we are on the best path to developing thriving children in flourishing families who create blossoming communities by focusing on these goals.

In this 2022 Annual Impact Report, you will see how your generosity is helping us accomplish the four Global Goals in the lives of children and families. Thank you for being part of what God is doing through Kids Alive International.

Global Goal: Finding Christ in Zambia

Once Abandoned to the Streets, Twins Find Christ in Lusaka

A boy and a girl, teenage twins (15), were on their own, abandoned by family, begging and stealing to survive on the rough streets of Lusaka, Zambia.

Sepiso* and Sitali*'s prospects changed when Kids Alive Zambia welcomed them at Chikondi Children's Village.

Moving from survival on the streets, fending for themselves, to being in the care and supervision of a family-style home wasn't easy for Sepiso and Sitali.

Because they had adapted to their unhealthy and unstructured environment, they struggled to build trust in their new caretakers. They exhibited this through challenging behaviors such as disrespecting others and refusing to partake in anything spiritual. Who can blame them?

Their attitudes and behaviors changed over the next few weeks as they witnessed God's love through the Kids Alive staff and partook in Bible study sessions. Sepiso and Sitali gave their lives to Christ.

Today, they cling to their new Bibles, attend services at a local Church, and participate in their programs.

You helped make this happen!

Restoring a Broken Home in Lebanon

Two brothers roamed the streets of Lebanon without food, proper clothes, or schooling. Jad* (8) and Salem* (7) only had each other.

They were born out of wedlock to a Lebanese father and an Ethiopian mother, a circumstance creating citizenship status issues. The father's drug addiction led to fits of violence that drove the mother to flee and the children to roam the streets with each outbreak.

In July 2022, the juvenile court placed the boys in Kids Alive Lebanon's residential program.

At first, Jad and Salem had a hard time adjusting. They were aggressive and uncooperative. Kids Alive Lebanon's trauma-responsive team made them feel welcome, prioritizing their physical, mental, educational, and spiritual needs. The boys softened, felt safe, and grew healthier in the loving atmosphere.

Meanwhile, the father enrolled in a rehab program, and the Kids Alive staff located the mother to give her the good news that her boys were safe and doing well at Kids Alive Lebanon. We are working with both parents, helping them heal. They plan to marry and provide a loving environment for their children.

You helped make this happen!

Serving Christ in the Dominican Republic

She was twelve, neglected and abandoned by her family, and forced to become a domestic servant. Life was unbearable for Rebeca*.

She arrived at Kids Alive Dominican Republic out of these dire circumstances. The staff warmly welcomed her, enrolling her in our Christ-centered, holistic education program, where she began to heal from her trauma.

Rebeca thrived at our school, receiving an education that included instruction in God's word. Throughout her journey, God transformed her heart, preparing her for a life of independence and service. Rebeca enrolled in a university made possible by a Kids Alive scholarship and earned her degree.

Today, Rebeca is a teacher at the Kids Alive school. She's passionate and knowledgeable, instilling the values she learned at Kids Alive in the next generation of students.

Making Justice Accessible in Guatemala

Keilin* lived a happy childhood with her mom until she was five. That's when her father came into their lives. A joyous occasion turned into terror as he began to abuse his daughter sexually.

Keilin was bewildered, wondering why daddy was hurting her. She felt she had nowhere to go, no one to turn to. Her oppressor took advantage of Keilin's fearful silence for nearly a decade.

One day, Keilin, now 14, broke the silence, confiding in her friends and mother. Her mom went to the police, and they arrested the father.

Kids Alive Guatemala's Escuintla Justice Center took the case. Meanwhile, Keilin was placed in our Oasis Residential Care, where she accepted Jesus into her life, giving her a new-found identity in Christ that helped her overcome fear and self-loathing.

Keilin boldly testified in court against her father, who got 42 years in prison. Keilin and her mom are doing great, living free of fear and violence.

You helped make this happen!

A Kids Alive Supporter in Action

Dianne Sivulka

Dianne Sivulka is a supporter of Kids Alive International from Southern California.

"I first heard about Kids Alive when I heard Corbey Dukes speak at a Christian function. I visited Guatemala in June 2021 and was convinced this was a wonderful ministry when I saw their impact on the community.

"The most important thing to me is that local, national staff shepherd the work. I was impressed that Guatemalans with higher education used their talents to serve their people.

"I also love Kids Alive's approach to restoration. We're created in God's image and loved by Him. That belief guides their methodology to help the girls heal from their trauma. I see the brokenness in all of us, and that encourages me to bring God's love back home and share it."

Dianne's love for ministry inspired her to start an organization called Travel on Purpose.

"I want to change the way we travel for vacations. Travel on Purpose looks beyond fancy hotels and ventures into the local culture. We want to introduce vacationers to an organization that is doing something about the challenges that part of the world faces. For example, there is a high rate of sexual abuse of young girls in Guatemala, and Kids Alive is doing something about it. So, our Travel on Purpose group takes time on their vacation to go on a learning journey. I have now led seven tours to Kids Alive Guatemala in two years."

Dianne explains why people should partner with Kids Alive.

"When you support an organization like Kids Alive, it's not just about the child, but their family and community. We can help change a nation."

Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow...

Over a century ago, Leslie and Ava Anglin left their home in Georgia to bring Christ-centered education to the children of China. Their multifaceted approach was ahead of its time, for the Anglins were determined to make a difference in every aspect of a child's life – physical, spiritual, and intellectual. Their unique ministry eventually spread worldwide, serving over 3,000 children annually.

It's amazing to think that all these years later, we've come full circle, with our ministry now based in Georgia, where the Anglin's first set out in faith so long ago. The future looks bright, for we continue to bring our approach of "Justice that Heals" to children in need. We're breaking the silence, giving children a voice, and helping them overcome their trauma while building a relationship with God and learning important life skills.

We're not stopping there! We have plans to open justice and hope centers in Guatemala, Peru, Zambia, and Kenya because we're committed to expanding our services and bringing Christ to more children and communities around the world.

With your help, we can make a difference in the lives of countless more children for years to come.

Kids Alive International is committed to meeting the needs of those most vulnerable and providing them with hope for a better tomorrow, especially in the aftermath of catastrophic events.

With your support, we will be able to respond quickly to help vulnerable children and families caught in desperate circumstances, such as those affected by political and financial crisis.

Your donation will help continue to provide support to Kids Alive International programs and address arising emergency needs.
